Fine artist + Graphic artist and jazz musician Carl H. Bradford's journey towards his visual music revolution. Visual applications of colorful jazz and art experiences from childhood memories. Inspired this call to action to memorializes the many past and present Jazz greats of our times. I am one of many artists of [con·science] that embrace this style of artistic expression. Although most art critics don't see it the way we do as a viable expression in the art world, they just see it as a form of trend gone wrong. It's just as strong as a renaissance portrait or imaginative abstraction or reaction to the music itself. Just, one of many thoughts on my jazz fine art journey moving forward.

Some paint the drama in the streets, or the injustice of man in current times. My journey started there when I was a younger artist, it just turned as I continued to play music. I thank my many influencers every time I pick up my pastels and pencils. Please let us know what jazz fine art piece we can fit you with.
